Building intercultural competence within a student services office

by CFANS SSO’s Laura Dupont-Jarrett, Ph.D., L.P. and ISSS’ Thorunn Bjarndottir

At the same time we work to provide opportunities for students to develop their intercultural competence, it is critical that we in student services also work to build our intercultural competence. The Student Services staff in the College of Food, Agricultural, and Natural Resource Sciences is participating in a multi-stage training program designed to build our intercultural competence. This graphic shows the progression of trainings, as well as the campus partnerships utilized, in the hopes of showing how a similar training program could easily be replicated for other staff groups.

Step 1 Group feedback on the IDI
Step 2 Around The World in 180 Mins by ISSS
Step 3 Cultural Awareness Building by ISSS
Step 4 Individual feedback on the IDI
Step 5 Cultural Values: Myths & Realities by ISSS
Step 6 Working With Chinese Students by ISSS
Step 7 Personal Leadership by ISSS

Universal Design by Disability Services
Working With Transgendered Students by GLBTA Programs Office
OED Certificate Courses